THE DAILY PROGRESS.

VOL. VI. RALEIGH, MONDAY, OCT. 2, 1865. NO. 273

THE CITY.

Cotton have come in again, but not to the extent; these are replaced by a straighty, suspectful kind, which seems rather a presumption of the crown than a crop. The owners are generally still loaded with cotton here also, made their appearance, however, instead of disappearing, as formerly. The whole life level of the town is felt great public [illegible] of the town in fair, great public [illegible] resembling the old scenes in days [illegible]. The trimming is [illegible] necessary in the top of the bonnet, and flowers count gentlemen rather than ornamental gems; and it must be confessed there is something very inviting and attractive in its elegant though unpretending formality. This style of trimming is in such strong contrast with the pendant [illegible], flowing ribbons and drooping feathers of last month, that it is quite a relief to the eye, fatigued with endless repetition of the one idea.—Flowers, leaves, grasses and grasses enter into the composition, and gold in every form, from delicate [illegible], glittering fringe and tiny coin to burnished insectivora, with outspread wings, lends its own peculiar lustre.

The [illegible] and round hats are still worn, and [illegible] in this style have made many appearance. Prominent among these is the "Gainsborough," composed of black velvet, the fulled crown confined by a band of crimson [illegible] falls over the waterfall, half hiding and half revealing the glittering net in which the coils of tresses are securely coiled.

Professor Andrew Jackson.—Messrs. W. B. Smith & Co., of the Field and Fireside Bookstore, have sent us a beautiful colored print, in the first style of art, of our own noble President, Andrew Jackson. It is in size 19 by 24 inches, and afford-ed at the modest price of fifty cents. The resemblance to the Chief Magistrate is most striking, and as a work of art as well as because of the position, character and services of the man, it is worthy a place in the parlor of every North Carolinian.

This firm has in store a number of other prints, "The Bugler," "My Pet," "Ondine," &c., &c., besides a charming variety of photograph albums, Cartes de Visite of eminent generals and the like.—It is worth a visit to this store in order to see the splendid steel line engraving of the illustrious statesman and warrior, George Washington.

Caution.—We caution our readers against another new counterfeit. The Charlotte Bulletin has been shown a one dollar bill which has been changed into a twenty by a rather clumsy process. The figures "20" cut from a Confederate note, and pasted over the "1" on the genuine note, and the printed words, "twenty dollars," on the words "one dollar," in the centre of the bill. The same is done on the back. This note was passed off on a youth in one of the stores in that place. It is somewhat calculated to deceive those not much accustomed to handle money.

Ballooning.—Saturday night a paper balloon, with lantern attached, was sent up from some point in the suburbs and attracted in its heavenward flight much attention. Its course was in a line nearly parallel with the Raleigh and Gaston railroad, and before the final, destroying conflagration took place, it had attained great height.

Reverend.—We understand that reporters representing the New York Times, Herald, Tribune and The Nation, and the Boston Advertiser and Cincinnati Gazette, have reached the city to attend the session of our State Convention, which begins at the Capitol this morning. They are all at the Exchange.

The Sabbath—as in the good old time—passed off with full attendance at all the churches.

The Rev. Mr. Marshal officiated at the Episcopal church, and preached an able sermon from 22nd Chapter Revelations, 17th verse.

The music, vocal and instrumental, was excellent.

We learn that the Baptist Association will meet at Pendleton, next Tuesday, October 3d. All who wish to go from this place can leave by the Raleigh and Gaston train at 5 o'clock in the morning.

Increase of Railroad Fare.—We learned late last night that the fare on the railroad between this city and Charlotte had been increased from $9,75 to $10,50.

Wood Up.—Winter approaches and we therefore invite attention to the advertisement of W. H. Sumner. He can supply that article in any quantity and upon good conditions.

Runaway.—Yesterday morning [illegible] colored man [illegible] part of the [illegible] church. [illegible] he [illegible] hall [illegible] and [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

Let the body repeal the ordinance of secession and all acts and ordinances passed by irresponsible bodies for the prosecution of the war against the government; let them insert a clause declaring slavery forever abolished in the State; do what else might, or could be done half a dozen years ago, to overcome opposition and present it to the people and unite us publicly in time for the election for members of the Legislature, for Congress and Governor next fall.

We shall not let the movements of the Convention are generally well [illegible] that they will take hold of the work before them with a hearty good will and dispose of it as soon as possible. We will [illegible] pleasantry, until there [illegible]

This body, which [illegible] Friday, has not yet adjourned. [illegible] from different parts of the State, and, so far, their proceedings show to have been marked by [illegible]. We can appreciate the excitement of the right of suffrage or any other political privileges, more than they now have, to the blacks in this time of [illegible] to others. But we deem it a [illegible] that relation [illegible] should exist between the races; and hence it is that we would counsel [illegible] on the part of [illegible] of the whites. They cannot longer [illegible] this country by making enemies of the whites, who, as owners of the soil and all the wealth of the country, are masters of the situation. We trust they will make no hasty or unreasonable demands of this Union Convention, but be content to present such grievances [illegible] themselves to labor under, in a respectful and becoming manner. We believe, and have to experience, that by cheering, encouraging and elevating the freed slaves of the Southern States, the whites in the [illegible] are we to [illegible] and elevate [illegible]

Should we think that the right of suffrage would be [illegible] to the blacks as well as the whites, by [illegible] law, it will not do for us to say, it will not do for the State Constitution to say, that the black man shall [illegible] exercise other political privileges in South Carolina. The question of this and other political privileges might appropriately and in good time be left by the Convention as an incentive to industry, energy, virtue, [illegible] Whenever the blacks shall show by their intelligence and good behavior that they are capable of appreciating the rights and privileges enjoyed by the whites, and are desirous to have them, they will come into the enjoyment of them. The time when [illegible] will never make them wise, learned, moral or capable of exercising political privileges, but political privileges, good behavior and example [illegible] will elevate and fit them for the enjoyment of them. [illegible] have yet [illegible] but we must keep [illegible] and [illegible] of the whites, who, of course, [illegible] and [illegible]

[illegible] that [illegible] the [illegible] and [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

OFFICIAL REPORT OF THE LIBERALS.

New York, September [illegible]. Brownsville correspondent gives the following news:

Matamoras is fully invested by the Liberals, under Gen. Escobedo. There is a garrison of eighteen hundred men, and the attacking force consists of men exclusive of the forces under Quintana. If efficiently handled, the forces at [illegible] should suffice to hold the city, but the Liberals think so meanly of Mejia that they assert, that with more ammunition they could carry the city by storm.

The Republican forces have captured Quintana, in Leon, and spurred the monastery and [illegible] The merchants of Matamoras [illegible] thousand dollars dollars for the use of troops at the Pass of Cabras. The Juarists, who claim to have defeated nine hundred Imperialists with two hundred cavalry, and who further claim to have occupied the town of Catarajal.

The Matamoras papers [illegible] and entirely deny these statements.

Juarez is at Chihuahua with five thousand troops.

New York, Sept. 28.—At the session of the Episcopal Convention of the Diocese of New York today, Ex Governor John A. King, after the address of the Bishop was concluded, offered the following resolution, which was unanimously adopted:

"Resolved, That this Convention cordially [illegible] speech to the sentiments [illegible] by the Bishop of his diocese in his address respecting the return of peace to our land, and the state of the church in the Southern dioceses."

The Bishop in his address [illegible] that the Northern brethren should do all that in them lies to re-establish the unity of the churches. There were no [illegible] within the pale of the church there yet to be found in the South; and he was happy [illegible] to testify to their worth, and to express the estimation in which they were held by him.

Two Lawyers Recover Wine and Wife.—A suit in Chancery was tried, in the town of Ft. Wayne, Indiana Chronicle of the 20th, the plaintiffs of the Wabash Circuit, Judge Allington Hanna, U. S. Chapman charged Mr. Schultz, one of the counsel for the defendant, with having stolen certain letters from his wife. Mrs. Chapman and Mrs. Schultz immediately acknowledged the charge, and stated that to obtain the desired purpose, they had written the notes of the quarrel. The letters abstracted by the means, which resulted in the divorce of the Court granted to Mr. Schultz, and the secretary of the Commissioner duly appreciated the action, but they, Wabash sentiment, like modern society, is slow, as it ought to be, to countenance in the prisoner.

Yesterday morning, Mr. Schultz received the following letter from Mrs. Chapman:

Indianapolis, Sept. 7.

Mr. Schultz—Enclosed you will find ten dollars in payment of the ten you so generously tendered on my husband, Captain Chap. Allow me to thank you, and may the God of mercy and justice reward you for your kindness. Very respectfully, yours,

E. Wine.

A Rover Four.—H. D. Gurley, writing from London to the Journal Italia, says that Thompson has the brains of a Greyhound and the lungs of a Steer, but wouldn't or make a sensible exception to the declaration of his predecessor in Immortality, that the good die first.

—A Confederate bear was shot at North Eleventh, Macon, the other day, with a gun that was manufactured by the Greek to the British at Petersburg, Va., in 1812. It was used in the battles of Concord, Lexington and Bunker Hill, also at the defence of Quebec, and in the war of 1812 with Great Britain. Mr. Mabry is trusted back for 150 years.

CHEAP AND NICE BOARDING.

MRS. E. J. PENTEADO, NO. 16 SALISBURY street, has a few vacancies for boarders. Apply soon. Oct 5-1w

A New Paper.—The first number of the Journal of Fashion has been laid on our table. It is published weekly in this city by Messrs. Brooks & Cowan, and devoted to the interests of the Provinces. We are opposed to the principles it is designed to promulgate, but Mr. Brooks, the editor, writes with ability and a good degree of moderation, while Mr. Grant is a first-class printer and business manager. The Journal contains twenty-four columns of reading matter, and doubtless will be handsomely sustained by the people whose interests it advocates. Subscription $4 per annum; advertising terms liberal.

Important to Ministers.—Ministers of the gospel are required by law to affix a five cent revenue stamp to each certificate of marriage they may return to the clerk's office. This is necessary before it can be admitted to record. We would also state in this connection, that a failure to affix the proper stamps, to any instrument of writing requiring the same, subjects the party omitting such instrument to a penalty of $100. We could suggest, so far as the stamp on the marriage certificate is concerned, that the party to be married should invariably furnish it. He does not deserve a wife, unless to give the stamp.

Hogan not to Town.—A report was very generally circulated on the streets, late yesterday evening, that the "white-hat" philosopher of the New York Tribune, had arrived in the city by the 6 o'clock train. There was a running to and fro of white and black at the different hotels, but no one found him. For their relief, we may say that Mr. G. is not and will not be in the city.

Address to the Freedmen.—We understand that Col. Whittlesey, Chief of the Freedmen's Bureau, in this city, made an address to the delegates to the convention last evening. A gentleman who heard the Colonel says that the counsel given the freedmen was of a character entirely conservative. He did not despise their difficulties nor conceal their dangers, but as a true friend explained their duties and their rights. The address was throughout such an one as might have been expected from the esteemed gentleman.

The truth is, the address of the committee which we publish this morning embodies the general spirit of the South. We are pleased to see the respectful tone with which they approach the State Convention and kindly wishes expressed for their future success. They can do more by such intelligent action than in any other way.

Thanks.—The Southern Express Company have our thanks for late papers. They always beat the mails and Postmaster General Dennison must look to his laurels.

The Yankee on Saxon.—the engineer of which sank, Johnston in "novels," of high repute as a miner of sample charity (children) and other royal drinks—has our thanks for the intelligence of yesterday. The river was of superior age and flavor, and the conversationers will, doubtless, undergo this opinion before their labors are ended.

Rogers Bro.—Jno. G. Williams & Co., bankers of this city, have purchased the fine building, on the corner of Fayetteville and Hargett streets, formerly the property of the State Bank of North Carolina. It will be occupied by the gentlemen for their commercial business.

Queer Craft.—We saw a canoe in the city, yesterday, from Charlotte, addressing a crowd upon one of the street corners and intimating that he was a delegate from Mecklenburg upon the basis of two barrels of spirits, which he thinked was the property qualification.

What Next.—A drink called the Pelican-ee-ne has been started in this city. The invention is a Spaniard, who as a connoisseur in beverages, has a rapids equal to that of Segar in the matter of attention.

Hogan's candidacy "Many of the thirty" made him famous, but Hogan is entirely unequal representation by the sales of that article, Hogan's cousin, which is not.

New Advertisements.—We have only time to invite attention generally to our new advertisements. They dress the very age and body of the times throughout the State.
